OFF To SPANDAU

With its historic old town, fortress buildings, fascinating industrial heritage and green oases, Spandau is an Eldorado for explorers. At the confluence of the Spree and Havel rivers – only a few kilometres from Potsdam.

FROM THE OLD TOWN TO THE CITADEL

The old town with its lively pedestrian zone awaits you in the heart of the district. Marvel at Spandau's many sights as you walk down the historic alleys and round off the day in one of the neighbourhood pubs. For art and culture lovers, Spandau's museums and galleries offer many things to see and do.

Once a fortress and garrison town and protector of Berlin, Spandau developed into an important industrial location. Today, the Spandau Citadel is considered the best-preserved Renaissance fortress in Europe. Art lovers can enjoy its galleries and museums, music fans flock to the Citadel for festivals and concerts, and nature lovers take part in boat tours. There is an audio guide for the Old Town and the Citadel, which you can download in the free Lauschtour app.

TURBULENT TIMES – BETWEEN EAST AND WEST

During the Cold War, the Wall and border fortifications separated the people of Spandau and their neighbours in Havelland, Falkensee and Potsdam. Today, there are many places along the former border whose stories are entwined with past division. The western route of the Berlin Wall Trail runs for over 20 kilometres through the district.

SO GREEN – AND BUILT CLOSE TO WATER

Hike across expansive meadows and fields, stroll along the banks of the Havel river, or discover Spandau by boat. Those looking for rural wonders and water will find it in the green south. Here you can buy fresh regional products directly from the farmer or in the village shop. In the north lies the green heart of the district. The Spandauer Forst, one of the largest wooded areas in Berlin, is known for its diverse flora and fauna. Just around the corner are several bathing spots where you can enjoy a refreshing dip in the Havel.

Even Albert Einstein enjoyed the Havel flair in the "Spandauer Schloss" (Spandau castle), his summerhouse on the Scharfe Lanke lake.

CYCLING IN SPANDAU

A wonderful way to explore Spandau and its many highlights is to take a tour by bicycle. With the Berlin Wall Trail, the Berlin-Copenhagen Cycle Path and the Havel and Havelland Cycle Trail, four central routes run through the district. Those who want to take a thematic voyage of discovery can get to know the industrial past on "Production + Munition" or the more natural sides of the district on the way to the "Green South".

Information about our tours can be found at www.visitspandau.de and on our Koooot profile, "Spandau".

PILGRIMAGE TO SPANDAU

The Spandau Protestant church community opened the Spandau Pilgrimage Trail in 2020. It connects 22 Protestant and two Catholic churches in the district over a 75 km distance and is divided into three circular routes: city, countryside and river. There is also a circular bicycle route.

With the pilgrim's passport, the pilgrim's guide and the pilgrim's map, you will be well equipped.
